Planning for children's learning

You may notice a change in the way we will be displaying our planning for children's learning. We will note any emergent interests as well as ideas for extension. We hope this will be more visual and easier to see the links from our planning to our programme. Please feel free to add any interests you notice at home or ideas for activities to extend the children's learning.

Summer is coming!

It's that time of the year again (so the calendar tells us anyway!). When day light saving changes so does our Sun safe Policy. So as of the 26th of September the children will be required to wear hats and appropriate sun safe clothing when they go outside. We will be applying suncream too so keep a look out for the form to tick if you require your child to wear our suncream or their own. We recommend hats with a wide brim to protect their ears and back of necks while playing outdoors.

Thank-you!

A huge thank-you to everyone looking into how the environment is used now, what the teachers, children and night had by all, we tested our families have as a vision for brains and had a good laugh! what could be added and The final amount that was researching ideas and gaining raised is not known yet but it knowledge of what is best for will be used to improve our children's learning and outdoor environment. We are development. We look currently undergoing a self forward to seeing where this review of the outside review takes our environment. This involves us

Here Valentine and Flynn are experiencing an activity to extend the interest in space through to a different curriculum area, art. They are making some colourful flying saucers to decorate the room.

The children enjoy opportunities to challenge themselves physically around our environment, this also helps their brain development and further learning.

A big Thank-you to the parents who came to our shared lunch and mat time on the 1st of September. It was great to show you what some of our favourites are and to share lunch time with you.
